

DataArt Taps Former Nasdaq Director as Principal Consultant

Technology consulting firm appoints Toby Bryans as principal consultant of its finance practice.

Global technology consulting firm DataArt has appointed Toby Bryans as a principal consultant of its finance practice.

Bryans joins DataArt from Nasdaq NLX where he held the position of director of onboarding. He worked across a number of internal teams and with client projects for JPMorgan and ED&F Man. Prior to Nasdaq, Bryans was head strategic technologist at Schneider Trading Associates.

"[Bryans'] experience working on complex technology projects involving proprietary trading firms, high-frequency trading houses, global capital markets and tier-one banks will be invaluable to DataArt's growing finance practice," said Dmitry Bagrov, DataArt's UK managing director, in a statement.

Original article — <http://www.waterstechnology.com/buy-side-technology/news/2470763/dataart-taps-former-nasdaq-director-as-principal-consultant>